Prime Minister Shimon Peres Vows To Complete Israeli Rescue Of Ethiopia Jews

Ethiopian woman wearing tradition ornaments.

Prime Minister Shimon Peres vowed today that the Israeli rescue of Ethiopian Jews would be completed.

"We shall not rest until our brothers and sister from Ethiopia will come safely home," Mr. Peres told a seminar at the Hebrew Univerity in Jerusalem.

On Sunday, the Jewish Agency, Israel's semiofficial Government relief organization, announced that an airlift of the Ethiopians had been halted because of the publicity given to it. A spokesman said he hoped the halt to the flights would be temporary. There has been no independent confirmation that the flights have actually been stoppeo.

The reported suspension of flights left 4,000 Ethiopian Jews stranded in refugee camps outside Ethiopia and 6,000 to 8,000 still in Ethiopia, according to an agency spokesman.

The disclosure of the stepped-up evacuation of the Ethiopian Jews brought protests from Ethiopia, which characterized the operation as interference in its internal affairs. The disclosure also apparently embarrassed the Sudan, which officially maintains a state of belligerency with Israel. It has been reported that many of the refugees were ferried to Israel via the Sudan.

In another development, a spokesman for the Jewish Agency said serveral commercial airlines had offered to take over the airlift.

The offers were said to have begun after a Belgian charter carrier, Trans European Airways, annouced Saturday that it was ending its role in the operation. The company is reported to have ferried about 7,000 Ethiopian Jews to Israel via Brussels and other European cities since November.

Zvi Eyal, a spokesman for the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem, said the ofers of assistance had been received from a number of companies and passed on to the Government.

Meanwhile, some Israeli officials sought today to end the political recriminations inside the Government about who was responsible for the publicity. Israel said publicity forced it to halt the stepped-up operation, which they said had involved 35 planeloads of refugees since November.

"The more we succeed in removing the subject from the headlines," President Chaim Herzog said, "the greater the chances of rescuing the remnants."

The Jews of Ethiopia, numbering an estimated 25,000 have lived in isolation from the rest of the Jewish world for 3,000 years, and their way of life is remote from the ways of the 20th century.

Hundreds Attend The Unveiling Of The Late Adam Clayton Powell Plaque.

"They will be voting for me when I am dead and gone," laughingly said Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. with that impish grin on his face that was known world wide. That statement by harlem's first Black Congressman was made years ago. And believe it or not, they did.

It happened in 1983 when the New York State Assembly voted to pass a bill that was introduced by Harlem's Assemblywoman Geraldine L. Daniels renaming the Harlem State Office Building to the Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. State Office Building. And it passed.

A similar bill was introduced in the New York State Senate by Senator Leon Bogues of New York City, whose district includes Harlem, and it passed. Governor Mario cuomo signed it into law.

Adam was prophetic and right. The people of New York State did vote yes for this Black Historic giant of giants, as Assemlywoman Daniels proclaimed him. Hundreds of people from Harlem, and all over the U.S. honored and remembered him when the unveiling of a plague in the lobby of the building which commemorated him. Members of his family, including his first wife, Mrs. Isabelle Powell, and his second son, Adam Powell IV, were in attendence. Above the plague were pictures of Adam, Assemlywoman Daniels, and Senator Bogues.

Unveiling the plaque were Assemlywoman Daniels grand daughters Kaileah and Zalika The inscription on the plaque, which was read by Senator Bogues, was as follows:

The Adam Clayton Pwell, Jr. State Office Building rededicated 1983 in memory of the Life, work and times of Adam clayton Powell, Jr. in recognition of his many years of conscientious and effective service to the people of New York and the U.S. of America.

Mario M. Cuomo- Governor; New York State Senate; Warren M. Anderson - Majority Leader; New York State Assembly Stanley Fink - Speaker; Clarence D. Rappleyea, Jr. - Minority Leader Rededication Legislation sponsors Senator Leon Bogues and Assemblywoman Geraldine L. Daniels.

It was also the first time in New York State History that a Black Assemblyperson and a Black Senator's names have appeared on a State Office Building plaque.

Daniels Meets With Crocker And South African Ambassador

Washington, D.C. -- Le Gree S. Daniels, Chairman of the National Black Republican Council, announced that she has recently met with Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, Chester A. Crocker, and South African Ambassador to the U.S. B.G. Fourie on recent developments in south Africa. Mrs Daniels, who was joined in the meetings by Washington Attorney Clarence V. McKee, Chairman of the Council's Government and Congressional Relations Committee, issued the following statement:

"Black Americans have an ancestoral kinship with Africa and the plight of black Africans, -- whether it be the famine in Ethiopia or the system of Apartheid in South Africa.

"Because we believe that it is crucial to maintain dialogue at all levels, we recently met with Assistant Secretary Crocker and later with Ambassador Fourie to express our views, concerns and offer recommendations regarding matters related to the South African situation.

"We encouraged Dr. Crocker to maintain a firm and steady course in his effort to maintain a meaningful dialogue with the South African government and particularly black South African leaders with the objective of achieving a lasting, and meaningful political formula by which the process of peaceful and definitive dismantling of apartheid will ocur.

"Our meeting with Ambassador Fourie was frank, and constructive. We stressed the importance and urgency of his government's maintaining continual discussions and dialogue with a broad cross-section of the black South African leadership in the business, political and educational sectors with the objective of hastening the process of reform and ending apartheid. Also, we encouraged greater comunication and dialogue between black Americans in all sectors and black South Africans.

"We believe that the problems in South Africa will, in the end, be resolved by South Africans of all colors and races working together in a continous dialogue toward reform. Apartheid and the achievement of the full economic potential and growth of that nation cannot co-exist.

"Because continuing dialogue is so necessary on this issue at all levels, and because we also plan to have further such meetings, as well as with members of the House and Senate, we do not feel it is appropriate at this time to set forth the entire substance of our discussions with either Mr. Crocker or the Ambassador. However, we believe that this process has been and will be very helpful to all parties concerned.

Ethiopians And Israelites Are One With God.

The Ethiopians & Israelites are one people with God. As it said in Amos 9 & 7 are ye not as children of the Ethiopians under me O'Children of Israel saith the Lord?

The tribe of Judah returns to the Holy land by the mighty hand of God. The press claim it was a miracle, but it was only the fulfillment of the scriptures. The Lord will bring the children of Israel back to the Holy land. They will not be plucked up anymore.

The Ethiopian Jews are the descendants from the tribe of Judah as was Haile Selassie which was king of kings and direct descendants of King Solomon., which was a descendant from the tribe of Judah. This was the same tribe Jesus came out of, who was also the offspring of David.

by Apostle Bishop D.L. Brooks. D.D.

WORDS OF WISDOM
HAVE YOU BELIEVE OUR REPORT?
SERIES #47
ISAIAH 53: 1&2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?
For he shall grow up before him as a root out of dry ground.
He hath no form nor comiliness: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

EZEKIEL 43: 1- 12

Afterward he brought me to the gate, even the gate that looketh toward the east:

And, behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east: and his voice was like a noise of many waters: and the earth shined with his glory.

And it was according to the appearance of the vision which I saw, even according to the vision that I saw when I came to destroy the city: and the visions were like the vision that I saw by the river Chebar; and I fell upon my face.

And the glory of the Lord came into the house by the way of the gate whose prospect is toward the east.

So the spirit took me up, and brought me into the inner court; and, behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house.

And I heard him speaking unto me out of the house; and the man stood by me.

And he said unto me, Son of man, the place of my throne, and the place of soles of my feet, where I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel for ever, and my holy name, shall the house of Israel no more defile, neither they, nor their kings, by their whoredom, nor by the carcases of their kings in their high places.

In their setting of their threshold by my thresholds, and their post by my post, and the wall between me and them, they have even defiled my holy name by their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have consumed them in mine anger.

Now let them put away their whoredom, and the carcases of their kings, far from me, and I will dwell in the midst of them for ever.

Thou son of man, shew the house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities: and let them measure the pattern.

And if they be ashamed of all that they have done, shew them the form of the house, and the fashion thereof, and the goings out thereof, and the comings in thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the forms thereof, and all the laws thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keep the whole form thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

This is the law of the house; Upon the top of the mountain the whole limit thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the law of the house.

From the desk of the publisher, Apostle Bishop D.L. Brooks

Group Theatre Presents Fugard's "Sizwe Banzi Is Dead.

The Group Theatre company presents, as the second production of its current season, the powerful and moving play - SIZWE BANZI IS DEAD - by South Africa's premier playwright, Athol Fugard, opening January 17 at the Ethnic Theatre. A stunning play, SIZWE BANZI contains the necessary dualism inherent in great drama: It is at times unbearably moving; but is it also filled with flashes of humor and life-affirming joy.

This extremely timely play deals with the survival of a South African black man under the structures of apartheid and, on a more universal level, with the beauty and endurance of the human spirit.

The Homosexual Issue

A small largely homosexual denominationis bid to join the national Council of Churches has threatened to split the ecumenical organization. The council's governing board meeting in Hartford, is divided on whether to accept the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches. Nine Eastern Orthodox churches claim the group's beliefs run contrary to biblical and theological traditions and are threatening to leave the council. Their departure would make the council exclusively Protestant. "It is clear form the history of this group that it has come into being around one single issue - homosexuality," says Archbishop Iakovos, leader of the Greek Orthodox Church.

NOTE: The homosexuals' beliefs do not run contrary to biblical and theological traditions; they run contrary to the clear teachings of the Bible - God's Word. Homosexuality is an unnatural, perverted lifestyle. It is caled, in Romans 1, "uncleaness," "vile affections," "unsemly", and "against nature." The Scripture says, "Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleaness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves: Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen. For this cause God gave them up into vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature: and likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error..." (Romans 1:24 - 27)

A recently released book by Catholic priest and Cuban refugee Enrique T. Rueda, The Homosexual Network, is sure to stir a hornet's nest. The book covers everything from the movement's ideology to it's funding much of which is provided by the unwitting American taxpayer.

The movement has actually gained little acceptance in the U.S., but it has gained media support and the support of influential people. Television in particular has been quick to adopt the language of the movement and to avoid all terms that smack of disapproval of homosexual activity.

Rueda explains that the media have played down the sobering facts about the high incidence of veneral disease among practicing homosexuals - about ten times that of the general population.

Most infuriating is that the movement receives federal funding, especially through the CETA program. The Las Angeles Times reported one CETA grant to a homosexual center to be $50,000. Rueda's book shows how a well-organized minority can wield incredible leverage and get the taxpayers to support it without their knowledge. I guess anything can happen in America.

FALL SEPARATES FITTED, LIVELY AND COLORFUL

Liz Claiborne, designer, top right, with model in fall separates. Left, three-quarter-length knit coat with blazer and pants.

Evening dress in taffeta and organza with bow on bodice, and suit with mixed patterns, by Adolfo.

claiborne, the queen of the moderate-priced clothes designers, is something called "wear now clothes" or "10 months a year dressing."

Colors have a simple clairy, focusing on red, navy and white in various combinations. Collarless necklines and short-sleeved jackets lighten the look for warm weather. A culotte that is divided in front only looks right with the short-sleeved jackets.

BLACK DESIGNERS

◀ Angelo Gilmore

A spare, almost ▶ stark simplicity is the hallmark of free-lance designer Angelo Gilmore, a native of Detroit. His separates—clean lines in uncluttered, architectural shapes—often use a basic palette of red, black and white in supple fabrics like wool crepe and jersey. Designing primarily for a private clientele, Gilmore finds that women are striving for a "completeness" in their personal style. "A pulled-together woman commands respect. I hope my designs elicit the same response."

"Men's clothes on women is over. All the women are looking very much like women. All the men are looking very much like men.

The whole gender-bender thing, the idea of men looking like women and vice versa, is over. And men's tuxedos on women are finished.

AMERICAN designers have already begun to show their new fall clothes, or early fall clothes as they are called. The concept of many of the moderate-priced collections, including Perry Ellis Portfolio, Calvin Klein Classifications, Daniel Hechter America and Liz

Richard Fisher's designs for men and women sweep from rugged sportswear to sumptuous evening wear. Emphasizing comfort and practicality as well as elegance, Fisher works from a palette of earth tones often sparked with strong accents of vivid color. The Tampa, Fla., native's eclectic style allows him to move freely from the understatement of tone-on-tone separates to the masculine dash of leather jumpsuits and intricately cut jackets to the unabashed elegance of dress suits and lux tuxedos.

Women

The point is that anything that looks like fashion right now is out.

Women

Everyone who headed south for the holidays, or east, swung back into town, threw out all the cards they had stuck to the mirror and shifted into work mode.

"Women are wearing a new look on the streets,"

From Pittsburgh, Mark Anthony Pennywell recently turned a long-standing talent for knit design into a new business in bridal wear for Mark Pennywell Inc. The new division specializes in separates for bridesmaids - delicate blouses or soft angora sweaters paired wth ballerina-length skirts - and bridal gowns with a modern, but still romantic look. Pennywell also recently opened a retail outlet in Pittsburgh that will offer cocktail, evening and bridal wear of his own design, as well as European imports.

WARDROBE PLANNING

Every man needs at least one suit: most men need more, if he is a businessman who wears a suit to work every day, he'll need at least five suits. If his work environment allows him to to alternate with sport coats and slacks, three suits will surfice.

ON the other hand, if he is in an occupation that never requires a suit and his personal life is similarly casual.

Whether his is a one , three, or five-suit wardrobe, keep the following in mind: the color, texture and design of the fabric.

March of Dimes
SAVES BABIES
HELP FIGHT BIRTH DEFECTS
THIS SPACE CONTRIBUTED BY THE PUBLISHER

Wardrobe

He will need five dress shirts per suit. The most attractive and comfortable fabrics will be 100% cotton or a cotton-polyester blend. Broadcloth and batiste both are fine, smooth weaves, but batiste is sheerer.

Four white or light-colored broadcloth, batiste, or Oxforc cloth shirts and one striped pattern, window-pane or box plaid style make a good choice.

▲ A loosely-knotted scarf adds dash to a casual shawl-neck sweater.

MATTHEW 23: 1-12

Then spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

Saying, The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat:

All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for they say, and do not.

For they bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay then on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers.

But all their works they do for to be seen of men: they make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments,

And love the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues,

And greetings in the markets, and to be called men, Rabbi, Rabbi.

but be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your Master even christ; and all ye are brethren.

And call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven.

Neither be ye called masters: for one is your Master, even Christ.

But he that is greatest among you shall be your servant.

A Black Histor Doubleheader

Dr. Wyatt Tee Walker has emerged as the newest and brightest authority on America's only original music -- Black Sacred Music.

If you don't believe me, get a copy of his latest book, "Somebody's Calling My Name." In it, he presents abundant evidence to substantiate how the legacy of Africans on these shores has been presented in this country's music.

On a typical Sunday morning, Dr. Walker, (he has an earned Ph. D.) holds forth as the Reverend Wyatt Tee Walker at the Canaan Baptist Church in Harlem. With one of the best choirs in the country, he and his music director Gene Cooper light up New York with a singing history of Black Amrica.

Dr. Walker's book can be ordered from him at Canaan Baptist Church, 132 West 116th Street, New York, NY 10026.

"Somebody's Calling My Name" describes how the music of the Black religious experience served as an indispensable support for the establishment, growth and continuity of the Black Church. The inant influence in the life experiences of Black Americans.

Rev. Walker describes music as one of the three major support systems for Black Church members. The other two are preaching and praying. Tracing the relationship between tribal rhythms and gospel, Dr. Walker underscores the African influence in the music of the Black religious experience. He traces the progressive development of the music of the Black religious eperience from its African ancestry to modern day Christianity.

The oral tradition of our African ancestry carried over into our life in the U.S. cultural traditions created dependancy on oral tranmission for news and information. Often this oral communication was more fondly embraced in a rhythmic or musical cadence. Spirituals were created and refined in the slaves' religious and social statements.

The music of the Black religious experience has also played an integal role in the general socio-economic development of Black Americans. With forces of the social struggle, so too has the music of the Black religious experience been there.

Dr. Walker says, "The African Spiritual form influenced the meter music, which in turn colored the use of Euro-American hymns by Black Christians. The language of the two musical types was borrowed from the dominant society and revamped musically to suit the religious need of the Black community.

Another marvelous work has arrived just in time for Black History Month. Jim Hurt, Jr. has edited and published a 160-page, 8½ x 11 hard-cover Souvenir Book from the 1984 First National Assemly of Black Church Organizations.

For books write BCAP, P.O. Box 1227, Hackensack, N.J. 07602 (201) 488-1859.

Hurt has filled a gaping historic void with this book. Among many startling facts, it estimates that Black churches' membership rolls account for 60 percent of all Blacks in the U.S. to number between 15 and 17 million persons. Significantly, 66 percent of that number is female.

Across the nation, the Black churches are made up of some 60,000 congregations. It was more than 150 years after the first enforced African Slave arrived in American, 1619, before a Black controlled organized church was established. The earliest Black institution was the Free African Society of Philadelphia that was organized in 1787 under the leader ship of Richard Allen and Absalom Jones.

Segregated sections wei also provided in church cemeteries. This and many other religious gems fill this book which traces our faith from the mother l and through America where we came as enforced immigrants in the generation of our forefathers.

WITHOUT THE BLACK CHURCH, BLACK AMERICA WOULDN'T HAVE HAD A PRAYER.

"Black colleges were born in them; the civil rights struggle took place in them; and music was the heartbeat of its very existence."
—Tony Brown

Tony Brown examines the Black church as the soul of the Black community, and Black music as the soul of the church, in a special four-part series on PBS, "Thank God." The church was a motivating force in the lives of Black Americans. But it taught more than just religion—it molded the political and social structure of today's Black America. Tony Brown captures it all, as only he can. Don't miss it.

Overview Of Trip To Central America.

On late Saturday afternoon, December 22, I arrived in Chicago from Guatemala via Miami, thus completing the last leg of my 10-day, fact-finding mision to Cuba, Nicaragua, El Salvador, and Guatemala. In the next two or three weeks in this column, I shall report on the trip in some detail. This week, however, I will merely give an overview of my impressions and restate my reasons for taking the trip.

Though hectic, my mission proved intensely educational with respect to this turbulent region of Central America where the U.S. is deeply involved. Until Congress voted a halt last year, the Reagan administration had trained, supplied and financed guerrilla efforts to counter the popular revolution in Nicaragua, which overthrew the late tyrant, Somoza, in 1979. I visited there because, soon after it convenes in January, Congress will vote on resumption of Reagan's military interference in this tiny nation of fewer than four million people.

I visited El Salvador because the Reagan administration, with the support of congress, is providing this country with almost 400 million dollars in military aid this fiscal year, an outlay of your tax dollars far exceeding what a city the size of Chicago receives annually from our federal government for such essentials as educating our children, housing the ill-housed, feeding the hungry and providing health care for the needy.

Although El Salvador's government-- under the leadership of well-intentioned President Napoleon Duarte-- was democratically elected, it exists only at the sufferance of its independent military. Additionally, the wealthiest 15% of farm-owners still control more than 60% of the production in this nation reeling under insurgency. Guatemala, one of the most fascist-oriented countries in this hemisphere, is headed by a pistol-toting general who seized power in a military coup a couple of years ago, and he is brutally suppressing years of peasant rebellion. These three small, impoverished Central American nations, whose major exports are coffee, beans, cotton and sugar cane that are grown on huge farms owned by a very wealthy few, are extremely important to the U.S. -- not only because of the cost to you of our involvement in those countries affairs More importantly, they could quickly become another Viet Nam, resulting in the maiming and killing of your sons and daughters conscripted for our armed services. Thus, I labored there under some personal risk instead of taking a long-postponed and well-deserved vacation, because of concern for your immediate welfare and my deep commitment to peace, justice and prosperity in the world.

I visited Cuba to learn how it has solved problems similar to those besetting the other three countries, and because Cuba is the most stable and prosperous nation in the nearby region. I shall report on Cuba in some depth in next week's column. In each of the countries I visited, I talked with ordinary citizens in work places and markets, met at length with their ministers of economic development and of foreign affairs. Further, I spent hours in private conversations with Cuba's President Fidel Castro and Nicaragua's President-elect Commandant Daniel Ortega, one of the courageous youg leaders of the revolution that took place there.

Finally, I made this trip and am informing you of it because I believe that to be forewarned is to be forearmed. I have an abiding faith that the American people will correct our government's ill-conceived course in its foreign relations if the people are sufficiently informed.

To Be Equal
By John Jacob

Protesting Apartheid.

The brutality of the South African government and its imoral apartheid policy, has led to formation of a broad anti-apartheid movement in the United States uniting conservatives and liberals in opposition to our own government's South African policy. That policy is called "constructive engagement" and supposes that friendly persuasion rather than open criticism will move the South Africans to open their system to all of their people, including the four out of five who are black.

But "constructive engagement" has not worked. South Africa's leaders have taken it to mean Amrican toleration of blatant violations of human rights. And in the absence of outside pressures, they have solidified their system.

Recent protests have moved President Reagan to make a strong denunciation of apartheid. Add to this a strong denunciation of the government's policies by three dozen conservative congressmen, a public commitment to work for change by U.S. companies with a presence in South Africa, and the mushrooming support for the anti-apartheid movement, and you have the grounds for a drastic change in U.S. policy.

Such a change would be in the long-tern interests of our nation. South Africa is the only country in the world to base its system on racism, openly refusing the most elementary citizenship rights to its black majority.

Jacob

As a people who consider ourselves moral and as leaders of what we term "the free world, "cooperating with such an evil system is wrong and it cannot be justified. Important commercial and strategic interests in South Africa have served as the excuse for cooperating with the South African government. It is said we can't afford to endanger our access to rare materials, nor endanger our strategic position by opposing a friendly government.

But unless we ally ourselves with those in South Africa who do not accept its racist system, in the long run we are likely to lose both the metals and our strategic position.

For apartheid is doomed to fall sooner or later, perhaps by violence. If that happens and it must, for no government can keep 80 percent of its people in virtually slavery-then whatever government emerges from the ruins will view the U.S. as its enemy.

At the same time, we could generously assist educational, training, union, and selfhelp groups within South Africa that are working for change, and from whom the country's future leaders will come.

Ultimately, only South Africa's whites and blacks -- together can find a way out of their tragic situation. America's proper role is to be helpful in that process - to nurture it, and to support constructive change. but whatever we do, we cannot ally ourselves with the open racism of a small minority of South Africans to help them preserve their power at whatever cost to our values and true interests.

HEADACHES

Headaches are one of the most common types of pain suffered by mankind. They will come in many forms like the eye strain headache, the migraine headache, the tension headache, or just a plain headache.

Enormous volumes of aspirin and pain pills are consumed by the American public each year to try to find relief of headache pain but with no lasting results.

Let's analyze the different types of headaches and what can be done for each one.

1. Eye strain headache: This headache is generally around or over the eyes and indicates that you have been reading without enough light or that you need to get glasses or have your glasses changed. You never awaken with this type of headache. It comes only after using your eyes. For this headache, a good eye doctor is recommended.

2. Migraine headache: This is usually a one-sided headache with severe pain centering behind one eye and radiating back to the upper neck. The migraine headache is most commonly caused by a vertebra in the upper neck that is misaligned and irritating a nerve. Your chiropractor can locate and correct the vertebral misalignment and by doing so eliminate the cause of most migraines. Some women's migraine headaches are caused from taking the birth control pill and will leave only after the lady ceases taking it.

3. Tension headache: This headache comes on usually in the upper neck from on the job stress, frustrations like traffic jams, family problems, financial problems, etc. Tension headaches will rarely occur if there is not also pressure on a nerve in the upper neck caused from a misalignment of one or two vertebrae in the area.

4. Just a "plain" headache: Ordinary headaches can be located anywhere in the head and can vary in frequency and cause. Sometimes, they are present upon awakening due to sleeping on one's stomach, or from the effects of sleeping on two pillows. Sometimes they originate from a fall or from bumping the head.

All headaches have a cause. Most of them can be corrected by a gentle spinal adjustment administered by your doctor of chiropractic. Remember, pain pills may lessen the pain of this headache but chiropractic spinal adjustments not only help to relieve the headache you have now but, also, help to prevent the return of another one.

A GREAT POSSIBILITY NEEDED:

A LONG-TERM COMMITMENT

Are We As Americans Willing To Be Committed

The world's attention has begin to turn toward the crisis of hunger and famine in Africa. With increasing frequency, the headlines scream out from our newspapers: 35 million Africans Face Starvation, UN Calls African Famine Worst in Recent History, Starving Ethiopians Must Be Rescued.

In countries around the world, individuals are responding generously in support of the alleviation of the current crisis. Food is being flown in Trucks filled with sacks of grain are moving. Lives are being saved.

The United Nations is coordinating emergency relief efforts in Africa while also promoting long-term solutions through technical assistance, financial aid and other developmental programs. There is much remaining to be done. But the mobilization of international concern and assistance has begun.

This crisis, like all crises, will pass. Yet the persistence of hunger, as the backdrop of daily life in Africa, will continue.

Africa is calling out to us today. Calling out not only for an immediate response to a desperate crisis. But for a longterm commitment. Not someday. Not next week. Today. Right now. This is the challenge that Africa represents for each of us. Do we have the courage not only to respond to the emergency of the moment but also to take a stand for an Africa where famines and starvation will no longer occur?

Are we willing to be committed for the long haul, after the emergency leaves our headlines, after the horrible drama passed?
